BRITISH DRIVE WAR HOME WITH RAIDS ON DOZEN GERMAN CITIES

Invaders Shy at London Overnight But Cause Widespread Destruction Elsewhere in Island Kingdom; Berlin Reported Sending Aid to Italians in North African Campaign With High Command Taking Over Direction of Operations; Egypt Appears to Be Next Major Land Battlefield in War

25TH CONSECUTIVE DUSK-TO-DAWN SHELLING OF BRITAIN'S CAPITAL LESS SEVERE THAN USUAL

Swift-striking waves of German warplanes attempted to bomb London today, but British RAF fighters chased one formation down the Thames river and the Air Ministry reported all the attackers were intercepted and scattered.

With clear flying weather, Berlin said the aerial assault would be greatly intensified during the day.

The Air Ministry listed eight Nazi planes shot down from mid-night to noon without the loss of a single RAF defense fighter.

The 25th consecutive night of bombardment for London had passed with less severity than usual, but the attacks on England were widespread.

As the war passed its 13th month, war has now begun to feel the with the danger of a Nazi invasion of England becoming apparently more and more remote—London military circles said there was "no reason to doubt" that Hitler's High Command had taken over direction of Italian operations in North Africa, aimed at breaking Great Britain's hold on the Mediterranean.

These circles said also that in all probability German troops have moved into Italy to be used as reinforcements for the north African army.

Egypt appeared to be the next major land battlefield, they said, with Nazi-Fascist legions joining in an attempt to crush British resistance by spring and then turning to the "final assaults on British Island Kingdom itself."

"Invasion weather" today was poor. High seas were reported running in the Strait of Dover, lashed by a cold northwest wind.

British and German bombers spread wide destruction in their night patrols, and more and more it was becoming evident that Germany—which suffered little material havoc in the 1914-18 World

INVASION THREAT BELIEVED OVER FOR THIS YEAR

BY DREW MIDDLETON
London, Oct. 2.—(P)—The zero hour for attempted invasion of Britain this year has passed, in the opinion of neutral military observers and unofficial British sources, while there are signs that the battle of Britain will be fought in Africa.

British military informants said they had "no reason to doubt" that the German High Command had taken over direction of Italian operations in North Africa, and "no reason to doubt to believe" that Germany had moved troops into Italy, presumably to reinforce the Italians in Africa.

Officially the British are keeping their watchfulness against invasion of these isles at the same high pitch, but the influential Manchester Guardian declared today that "watchfulness must now extend more and more to the Mediterranean."

Inspection Trip to Pittsburgh Planned

Washington, Oct. 2.—(P)—The White House disclosed tentative plans today for President Roosevelt to inspect defense facilities in the Pittsburgh area October 11.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said Mr. Roosevelt on the same trip might dedicate the new superhighway between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, Pa., and also go as far as Dayton, O., to look over aviation operations there. He said he doubted that the chief executive would be able to accept an invitation to be in Cincinnati October 12 when a new radio station which will broadcast to South America will be opened.

"It is all extremely tentative, however," Early said.

G. O. P. NOMINEE SCORES SPEECH BY GOV. LEHMAN

Turning to Foreign Policy Questions Willkie Describes as "False, Malicious and Subversive" Address by New York State Executive

IN CLEVELAND TONIGHT

BY THEODORE F. KOOP
Aboard Willkie train enroute to Cleveland, Oct. 2.—(P)—Turning today to foreign policy questions, Wendell L. Willkie described as "false, malicious and subversive" a speech by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York that President Roosevelt's defeat would bring satisfaction to Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin and Japan.

While completing an address on international relations for delivery at Cleveland tonight, Willkie issued a statement saying:

"I have sought to avoid any risk of any suspicion in foreign minds of a disagreement in this country on our fundamental attitudes toward aggression and toward aid to Britain. Mr. Lehman ought to know that, too."

The Republican presidential nominee gave out his statement just after he left Grand Rapids, Mich., where he proposed a three-point method of increasing employment: increased production, stabilization of the tax structure and elimination of government red tape.

About the time the statement was being made public, a two-inch stone was thrown through the window of a dining car on Willkie's train. It hit William C. Murphy, Washington correspondent for the Philadelphia Inquirer, but caused only slight abrasions on his hand.

OCT. 16 TO BE SCHOOL HOLIDAY

Governor James, in Proclamation Issued Today, Calls Upon Directors to Close Their Buildings on Registration Day to "Impress Forcefully Upon Our Children, the Future Leaders of Nation, Grave Condition of World"

RELIGIOUS OBJECTORS MUST ALL BE ENROLLED

Harrisburg, Oct. 2.—(P)—Governor James today proclaimed a school holiday for October 16, when the nation and Pennsylvania register men eligible for military service.

The governor, in a proclamation, called upon school directors to close their buildings on that day "to impress forcefully upon our children, the future leaders of our nation, the grave condition of the world today and the importance of real citizenship at this hour."

James also urged teachers to familiarize their pupils with the reasons and the operation of conscription.

He said the holiday would make it possible for teachers and other school employees to volunteer to help in carrying out the registration. School buildings also would be made available for registration places where expedient.

Persons with scruples against military training must register on the day designated, the governor emphasized today.

POISON-FOR-PAY RING CHIEFS TO HEAR SENTENCES

Philadelphia, Oct. 2.—(P)—Three star actors in a ruthless slay-for-pay ring's drama of murder, were summoned today to court to learn whether they shall die in the electric chair or spend the rest of their lives in prison.

For Herman Petrillo, 47, dapper former spaghetti salesman who made love to dissatisfied wives and plotted the deaths of their husbands, the death penalty is mandatory. He twice has been convicted of murder.

Mrs. Charles Favato, plump, 45-year-old former rooming house keeper, and Dr. Horace O. Pearlman, 53-year-old physician, threw themselves on the mercy of the court by pleading guilty.

Mrs. Favato's plea came dramatically after she had been placed on trial in April, 1939. She created a sensation in the court by admitting she killed three men—her common-law husband, Charles Ingrao, his son, Philip, and Giuseppe Di Martino.

Disclosures at her trial and Petrillo's and information they subsequently gave, had been sufficient to send them to the electric chair.

Score by Innings:

Detroit	050 0
Cincinnati	000 1

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Crosley Field, Cincinnati, Oct. 2.—(P)—Two big right-handers, Buck Newsom and Paul Derringer, squared off on the pitching mound today as the Detroit Tigers and Cincinnati Reds opened the 1940 World Series before a capacity crowd of 33,000 that included notable figures of sports, theatrical and political circles.

The sell-out crowd moved in sunlight toward Crosley Field early for the first game of what may be one of the toughest last-ditch battles in World Series history, between Cincinnati and Detroit.

Shies were marked by a high overcast shortly before noon, but the weather bureau promised fair weather.

Former Postmaster General James A. Farley was among late notables to arrive for the classic. Chasing Big Paul Derringer off the mound in the second inning with a barrage of five hits which, coupled with two errors, scored five runs, the Detroit Tigers held a 5-1 lead at the end of the fourth frame of the first series game.

The Reds scored a run in the last of the fourth when Goodman doubled and scored on Ripple's single.

The lineups:

Bartell worked the count to two and two and then went down swinging. McClosky lifted a high fly to Ripple. Gehring looked at three of Derringer's curves, lifted a foul into the stands and then grounded out. Derringer to F. McCormick. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Werber slapped the first pitch directly at Higgins and was thrown out. M. McCormick sent a liner just over York's head that was good for two bases when the ball rolled up against the railing along the right field foul line. Goodman hit a change of pace ball to Higgins and was thrown out. McCormick holding second. F. McCormick took one strike and then drove the ball on a direct line to center field and McClosky made a spectacular catch by jumping into the air with his back almost against the wall. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Third Inning Tigers
York struck out on five pitches. Campbell shot a vicious single in to center field. Higgins struck out and Campbell was doubled trying to steal second. Wilson to Joost. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

PLEA FROM HARR

Harrisburg, Oct. 2.—(P)—Luther Harr, chairman of the Democratic state campaign committee, today urged his party colleagues to give Wendell L. Willkie a "courteous hearing" in Pennsylvania so that "the disgraceful scenes which marred his Michigan campaign will not be repeated here."

Say She Admits Throwing Basket

Washington, Oct. 2.—(P)—The complex excess profits tax bill, voted after weeks of contention, reached President Roosevelt's desk today, but already congressional dissatisfaction with the measure was being voiced and there were bipartisan demands for a thorough overhauling of the entire national revenue structure.

MISSION LEAVES TO CHOOSE SITES FOR NAVAL BASES

High Ranking United States Army and Navy Officers, Traveling in Military Planes, Plan Visit To Duke of Windsor Enroute

EXPLORE BAHAMAS

Miami, Fla., Oct. 2.—(P)—High ranking United States army and navy officers planned a visit today with the Duke of Windsor in Nassau before setting out on an exploration trip to find suitable defense bases on the outlying Bahama Islands.

Traveling in military planes, they stopped in Miami on the way to six British possessions in the West Indies where the United States will lease sufficient land to establish naval and air outposts.

Their stay on New Providence Island, where the Duke makes his home as governor of the Bahamas, was expected to be brief, because the tiny strip of land 155 miles from the Florida mainland provides scant space and insufficient harborage for military bases.

It was considered likely, however, that it would be strategically important to establish bases at least one Bahaman base in the vicinity of the Crooked Island passage, a great highway for ships in the West Indies, Central and South American trade.

The route is so brilliantly lighted by passing ships at night that the natives call it "the Broadway of the high seas."

WALLACE ENTERS THE NORTHWEST

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 2.—(P)—Henry A. Wallace carried the Democratic campaign into Washington state today after telling an Oregon audience that Wendell Willkie's statements of public ownership of power "are so confusing we cannot be sure what his attitude would be."

The Democratic vice presidential nominee, had on schedule today an address at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, and one here tonight.

At Portland, Ore., last night, the former secretary of agriculture asserted that, as counsel and as president of Commonwealth and Southern Corp., Willkie fought the Tennessee Valley Authority and testified before a congressional investigating committee in November, 1938, that he was "convinced the power activities of the TVA violated the constitution."

"If TVA was unconstitutional," Wallace said, "so of course was Bonneville," referring to the Bonneville dam project on the Columbia river.

TAX BILL REACHES PRESIDENT

Complex Excess Profits Levy Legislation, Voted After Weeks of Contention, Reaches Desk of Chief Executive for Signing as Congressional Dissatisfaction With Measure is Voiced With Demands for Overhauling

ONE MAJOR OBSTACLE BEFORE TAKING RECESS

Washington, Oct. 2.—(P)—The complex excess profits tax bill, voted after weeks of contention, reached President Roosevelt's desk today, but already congressional dissatisfaction with the measure was being voiced and there were bipartisan demands for a thorough overhauling of the entire national revenue structure.

One of the last big obstacles to a long-sought congressional recess, the excess profits legislation whipped through both House and Senate yesterday in rapid fashion. The president's approval was expected promptly because the bill contains provisions deemed essential for furthering the defense program.

The action left only the $1,450,000,000 defense appropriations bill as a major obstacle to recess. This bill, carrying the funds for the conscription program and the creation of an expanded army, already has received House approval but has not yet been reported out of Senate committee.

With Nov. 11 and Nov. 18 mentioned as dates until which a recess should be taken, House Democratic leaders made an informal checkup on sentiment today. In the event opposition materializes to a lay-off of such duration, it was understood that leaders would resort to a series of 3-day recesses for the period.

The bill has these four main points:

- 1.—It would increase the normal corporation income tax on firms earning more than $25,000 a year from the present rate of 20.9 per cent to 24 per cent.
- 2.—It would levy an impost of from 25 to 50 per cent on what the bill designates as "excess profits," statutory limitations on profits that may be made on government warship and aircraft contracts.
- 3.—It would permit industries (Turn to Page Nine)

PRESIDENT DEPLORES EGG-THROWING STUNT

Washington, Oct. 2.—(P)—President Roosevelt considers misanthropic in a political campaign a thoroughly reprehensible practice.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke out at his press conference yesterday when asked about the "harsh treatment" accorded Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, while campaigning.

The question referred to incidents during Willkie's appearance at Detroit and Pontiac, Mich.

He said he had been informed that an employee of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was involved in the dropping of a scrap basket from a high window at Detroit. If so, he declared, she should forfeit her position.

Girl Hit by Scrap Basket Recovering

Detroit, Oct. 2.—(P)—Betty Wilson, 19, who was struck on the head by a five-pound metal wastepaper basket Monday night as she stood outside a downtown hotel waiting to see Wendell Willkie, did not suffer a fractured skull and is expected to be discharged from receiving hospital today.

The girl suffered scalp lacerations when she was struck by missiles showered on the crowd shortly after Willkie had entered a hotel.

Miss Doris LeRoue, 31, a Reconstruction Finance Corp. employee, who said she hurled the basket and other objects from an 18th floor room in a "spirit of fun," is held by police. Officers said a warrant would be recommended today, but that the charge had not been determined.

Local Post Office Completes Plans For Observing Letter Writing Week

The Warren post office has completed plans for the local participation in the nation-wide observance of National Letter Writing Week which will be celebrated in every city, town and village throughout the United States during the week of October 6 to 12 inclusive, it was announced this morning by Postmaster James K. Bell.

This marks the third successive year in which a seven-day period has been set aside, under the direction of the Post Office Department, and nationally observed as a "Write Today to Those Away" week. The enthusiastic acceptance by the general public of this idea has been most encouraging and their universal participation has served to make the event progressively successful, Mr. Bell said.

The idea and objective back of the plan, said the postmaster, should place this seven-day period in the worthwhile class, far above the ordinary so-called "special weeks" which have cluttered the calendar in the past few years. It is a week of remembrance—a time to bring happiness, comfort and cheer to those away from home—an ideal opportunity to renew by letter those social and business contacts you have allowed to grow dim and an excuse to write that letter someone is waiting for, he said.

It's a common fault and so easy for all of us, said the postmaster, to put off the writing of that letter that is long overdue; resulting in the waning of friendships and bringing worry to loved ones, all because of neglect. Therefore, let all of us resolve to ear mark those neglected letters for reply at some time during this special Letter Writing Week. Write your friends, your relatives, your business associates; send a book of stamps to that son or daughter at school or college. The hint might result in more frequent letters home.

The Warren post office solicits the cooperation of its patrons and friends in its efforts to make our local observance of Write-A-Letter Week an outstanding success, said Mr. Bell.

AMUSEMENTS

LIBRARY THEATRE TODAY AND THURSDAY

"Dr. Kildare Goes Home"

"Dr. Kildare Goes Home" moves the scientific thrills and funniness of the Dr. Kildare series from the big city hospital to a country town in the latest of the Max Brand medical mystery pictures at Library Theatre today and Thursday.

Ayres plays Dr. Kildare more seriously than in former stories. Barrymore barks orders and draws laughs, and Shelton, a new discovery who "arrived" with Lana Turner in "We Who Are Young," handles his character skillfully. Gene Lockhart plays a neat character role as the gruff "mystery patient." Others in the cast are Samuel S. Hinds and Emma Dunn as Ayres' parents, Marie Blake, Neil Craig, Frank Orth, Horace McMahon and George Reed.

"Men Against the Sky," revealing glimpses of the actual steps in designing and testing new aircraft are disclosed for the first time on the screen in EKO Radio's vivid drama of modern aviation, "Men Against the Sky." Richard Dix, Kent Taylor, Edmund Lowe and Wendy Barrie are featured in this timely offering, which deals with the romance of an engineer and a pretty draftsman, and the heroic sacrifice of the latter's brother, a discredited stunt flyer.

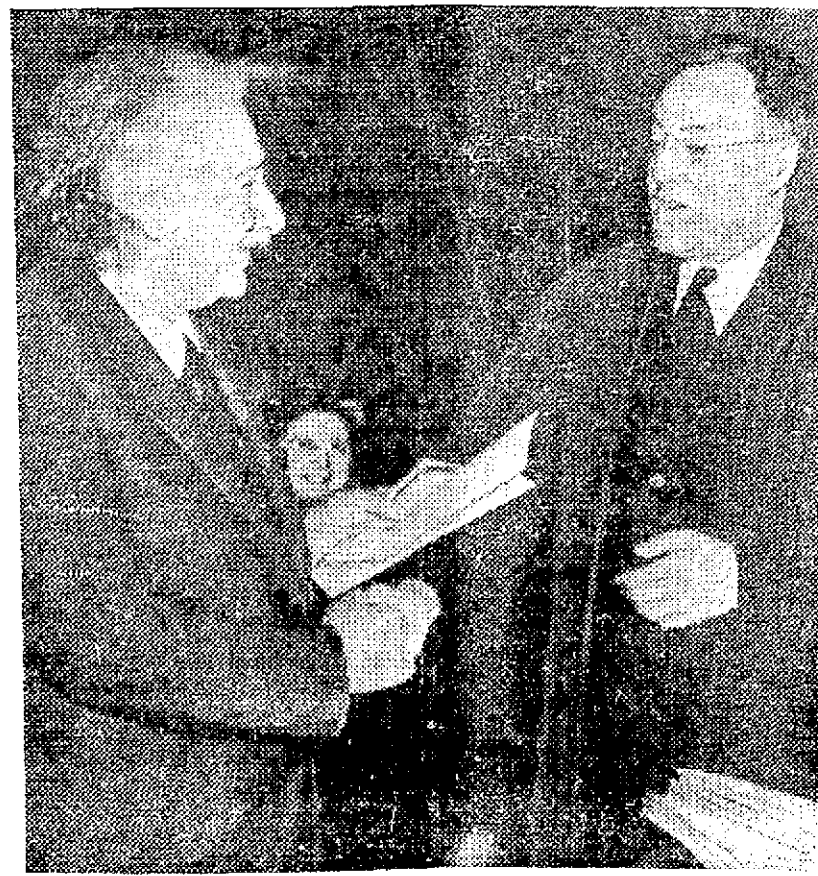

The action is laid in and around a plane factory, where the fastest pursuit ship in the world is created during the course of the gripping story.

LAWN SELLING

Fall seeding of lawns is very popular with many home owners according to John H. Light, state secretary of agriculture, because this is such a favorable season.

Nature herself does her seeding at this time. The weather is usually ideal for the quick germination of seed. The soil temperature is more favorable, and there is usually adequate rainfall. This is also a dormant time for weeds especially crabgrass which can be choked out by cultural methods.

"The Revival of Cooking"

That was the subject of a leading editorial carried recently in the New York Herald-Tribune. The Times-Mirror is in accord with the sentiment with the reminder in the opening editorial paragraph that:

"In the course of the last few years there has been a tremendous upsurge of interest in this country in the art and science of cookery."

Here the art and science of cookery will be stressed by a nationally-known specialist in home-making, Mrs. Mabel Bowen, whose years of training and research will be available to every homemaker in the community. Capacity audiences in city after city keenly attentive and brimming with questions have convinced Mrs. Bowen that American women are in no danger of becoming slaves of the can opener, the quick lunch and synthetic food.

Homemakers inquire into more important angles than time and step-savers. They want to know how to recognize foods rich in vitamins, how to build up sturdy bodies that will resist disease, how to stretch the food dollar to cover a maximum of nourishment, how to make their meals more colorful and appealing, how to simplify table service and thus star as a gracious hostess who entertains without apparent effort.

Many are the discoveries and short-cuts which this sympathetic home consultant is ready to share with her guests as unassuming as friendly neighbors. Mrs. Bowen

Quoting again from the Herald-Tribune editorial:

The undoubted improvement in the quality of the nation's cooking over the space of the last five or ten years may be attributed partly to scientific advances all along the line—production, refrigeration, canning, marketing, household methods and utensils. But that is not the whole story. Propaganda (in the most benign sense of that word) has had much to do with it. Food advertising cannot only be a good guide to values but at its best it can elevate the national taste.

New chapters in "The Revival of Cooking" will be revealed October 8, 9, 10 and 11 at the Y. W. C. A. activities building from the parade to the Times-Mirror Cooking School for inspiration original recipes, daily gifts of filled market bags and valuable major awards.

In this the third of our series on counting tricks I am going to point out a common error made even by the expert.

A word first about the bidding: some players may question North's jump to three spades. Generally a raise from one to three is a powerful bid suggesting a slam while the raise from one to four is generally conceded to be just a game sign-off. But with two aces, five trumps and a singleton I think North is justified in making his three-spade bid.

West's trump opening is a good one. Declarer wins with the queen, leads the ace of hearts, ruffs a heart and plays a small club. He goes up with the king and West catches three club tricks and returns a spade, and declarer must lose a diamond.

If declarer stops to count his tricks, losers as well as winners, he will realize that ruffing out the hearts does not help to solve the problem of how to avoid losing one diamond and three clubs. One club may be saved, though, by finding the ace with East.

But there is another chance to the heart finesse. In effect there are two finesses in clubs and hearts, and only one has to win for Members and friends of the First Baptist church were received Monday evening in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. James A. Davidson. 112 Fifth Avenue, West. Mr. and Mrs. Davidson arrived from the Knoxville, Tenn., Pittsburgh, early in September to take over the pastorate of the local Baptist church and the gathering last evening was in the nature of a home dedication as they begin their work in Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. W. Porter Beck of Pittsburgh, parents of Mrs. Davidson. After the guests had been given an opportunity to inspect the attractive and commodious home which is to serve as the parsonage during their residence here, the following program was enjoyed in the living room where Mr. Davidson presided as genial host.

Solo: "Bless Our Home" by B. H. Sing. By Pastor, Mabel Bowen.

Reading of Bible: "Guests of the Home" by Mr. Davidson, service of dedication.

Mr. Davidson spoke effectively of the fundamental elements of home life, symbolized by light, water, salt and bread, saying these are symbols of the great and enduring love of the Christian home. The dedicatory prayer was offered and old and beloved hymns and songs were sung as the pastor led them one after another without announcement. Miss Viola, 1400 Beautiful are Thy Dwellings, by Liddle. The service of dedication is closed with the benediction by the pastor.

More than 150 guests flocked to enjoy the delightful fellowship hospitality and refreshments served from a table attractive with fall flowers, which were used also for decoration throughout the home.

The correct play is to win the first trick with the ace of spades, lead the heart and finesse the queen. Whether this wins or loses, the plan is to discard one of dummy's clubs on the ace of hearts.

Mooney Pupils Are Heard In Recital

There was a fine attendance Monday evening in the music hall of the Warren Conservatory for the special recital given by pupils of Mrs. Mollie W. Mooney.

Young people heard at this time were Bonny Johnson, voice and piano, and Virginia Fees, piano, with Meredith Young as accompanist.

Friends who attended were greatly pleased with progress shown and were unanimous in the opinion that one seldom hears better playing in students of this age.

Opening the program, Miss Johnson played with considerable dash and rhythm the Scharwenka "Polish Dance" and her "Witches in the Wind" by Adams was very clear and musically done. In her voice numbers, "Passing By" by Purcell was especially fine and she showed good upper tones and fine placement in Leon's "A Little Chinese Figure". Later, she sang with good style and excellent enunciation Gaynor's "Slumber Boat" and Pearl Curran's "Hol Mr. Piper". Her accompaniments were especially well played. Her second piano group included "Dainty Miss" by Barnes and "Hazel Blossoms" by Peabody, both done very pleasingly.

Miss Fees' first group included the Bach "Invention No. 8", played accurately and positively, and the Beethoven "Sonata Op. 27, No. 2", showing excellent control for a young player. A splendid technique was displayed in the "Perpetual Motion" by Wright and "Valse Arabesque" by Lack. In her third group, she played precisely the "Scherzino" by Moszkowski and "Rustling of Spring" by Sinding.

To conclude, the girls were heard in the Moszkowski "Serenata", the fine tone and expression showing careful drilling and finish in every melodic detail.

POLITICAL FORUM

Articles appearing in this department are furnished by representatives of the respective parties in Warren county and are not intended to reflect the views or opinions of the publisher.

REPUBLICAN

America must be strong. Since the foundation of the Republic Americans have been free to build the genius of power that have made America great. Free men, laboring with hand and brain, conquered a wilderness and established on this continent a great new empire stretching from sea to sea. Free to imagine and to invent have made America a symbol of material progress to the whole world. Free men have done this not government. The role of government in the advance of America was only to assure the freedom of her citizens.

The New Deal has preached a false doctrine to the free and independent people of America. It has told them that the government has unlimited resources and that it is the government that will take care of them and upon which they can live. It has substituted a system of dole and relief for the natural initiative of the individual and it insists that this is strength.

The Republican Party will never subscribe to this theory. They do not believe that unemployment is inevitable that American productivity must be curtailed that debt burdens and levies can be laughed away. They know that freedom and the forms of democracy that Americans cherish depend on jobs for American workers. Increased production in farm and factory and realism in the conduct of fiscal affairs.

They know that the potentialities of America have not yet been half realized. We have scarcely begun to build on to know what we can do with our resources and our manpower. The New Deal has tried to keep America at a standstill, its citizens have led to nothing but confusion and misery. Unless America is encouraged to grow and to go on growing our democracy will die rotted from within and endangered from without.

The leadership of the Republican party is pledged to make jobs honest jobs in productive industry. This is the basic necessity, if America is to be preserved, this is the promise that the New Dealers failed to keep and finally forgot. Roosevelt has put his trademark on the depression. He believes in it.

The Republican leadership will liquidate the false emergency that has kept America static for seven and one-half years. It will restore to the American people confidence in themselves and in their own ability to go on. The people are democracy. They are the spirit of America. For more than one hundred years the American Republic has stood as a symbol of promise against the dark tyranny that shadowed other parts of the world. It can remain as a light in the darkness a beacon of strength, if the American people are strong and courageous and independent. Only the weak submit to misrule. America govern themselves. On November 5th they will speak and by their ballots reject Roosevelt and the idea that America is no longer capable of dynamic vigorous growth.

FORMER PASTOR TO BE SPEAKER AT FALL RALLY

The chief feature of the 1940 fall rally of young people of the Erie Presbytery to be held in the First Presbyterian church here on Friday, October 18 will be the evening public mass meeting to be addressed by Dr. Raymond M. National Newspaper Week is Being Observed Throughout United States

Newspapers throughout the country Monday opened the observance of National Newspaper Week. The part which newspapers play in the life of the nation is being stressed in the various papers.

Both President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie yesterday declared that freedom of the press remains essential to the preservation of democracy.

William N. Hardy, manager of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association and chairman of the observance received letters from both the president and Willkie stating that freedom of the press should be emphasized.

"I hope in observance of National Newspaper Week that due emphasis will be placed on the necessity for maintaining freedom of the press in a democracy," the president wrote.

"Freedom of conscience of education of speech of assembly are among the very fundamentals of democracy and all of them would be nullified should freedom of the press ever be successfully challenged."

"I have little fear that freedom of the press will be abridged from external assault in this country. The danger is from internal corruption. If our press exemplifies a passion for truth and justice and fair play for all it will avoid that spiritual paralysis and decay which are the deadly enemies of our free institutions."

Willkie wrote that perversion of news and control of the press views "are the first aims in the would-be dictator's effort to undermine democracy," and declared:

"The United States is the only great nation in the world today with an absolutely free press. So long as it remains true that our press is free so long will our democracy survive. So long as it

Crippled Reds Enter World Series Before Crowd Of 33,000

Lombardi And Lonnie Frey May Not Be Able To See Any Service

Cincinnati, Oct. 2. (AP)—What first time I haven't even been nervous.

The Detroit lineup was intact, with Hank Greenberg and Rudy York glowing with health and ready to sock their home runs.

The Reds, on the other hand, had realized their big long-hitting catcher, still was limping painfully on his sprained ankle, and it looked as if he might not get in the series at all. With Lombardi out, the Reds had one real hitter left—First Baseman Frank McCormick.

The Reds also lost their steady second baseman, Lonnie Frey, whose big toe was smashed by a water cooler lid only a few days ago. It looked doubtful that Manager Bill McKechnie would take a chance on him.

All of which meant that the Reds entered the series seriously weakened. Their replacement for Lombardi was Jimmy Wilson, a veteran backstop who hasn't played regularly for over two years. Jimmy, however, is as full of pep and verve as a sophomore half-back.

To take Frey's place at second they had Eddie Joost. He can field fully as well as Frey, but his hitting leaves much to be desired.

The Reds had more trouble on their hands than a man with an extra wife, yet they still had a large and cocksure following. They had no real sluggers in their lineup, yet they were being picked right and left to lick a team that had Hank Greenberg.

The reason for this, of course, was the potency of Cincinnati's pitching staff. When York and Greenberg poled home runs over the left field fence in practice yesterday, a writer watched them glumly and said:

"But those boys aren't batting against Derringer or Walters this afternoon."

The Reds went into the series badly crippled, and the professionals were laying modest odds against their chances. Yet they still drew a majority vote among the men who write baseball and who follow it all season.

President Ford Frick of the National League said: "This is the

After seeing the Dragon Reserves in action against the Youngsville Varsity and the Titusville Yaguans, your observer predicts another great club for Warren High either next year or in 1942. Even if next season's combine doesn't fall under the "great" heading, it will be plenty good, for there is a grand squad of sophomore huskies en route to the varsity show. The team's success is, of course, contingent on the P. L. A.'s leaving the age limit alone. It is entirely possible that between now and then Heri Wicht and his associates may decide that when a boy has reached the qualifying age for Junior G-Men he becomes too old to participate in scholastic athletics. Hoffecker looks like a fine prospect for end; there are potential leather-toters in Bleech, Salerno, Graham, Kifer and five or six others. Incidentally, Kifer, Coach Leidig's southpaw baseball pitcher, who won six out of seven games for the Dragon tossers last spring, can chuck a football with equal facility and may turn out to be the nearest thing to "Lefty" Check to bob up in several seasons.

And speaking of ex-Dragon stars, we note that Bill Chapman, a sophomore at Allegheny, has been tentatively picked by Coach Karl Lawrence to start the Haverford game at right end. Bill, who starred at center for the Blue and White a couple of seasons ago, had quite a job cut out for him at Allegheny, inasmuch as Co-captain Bud Saylor, of Erie, is the regular pivot man. Chapman has shown up very well in practice sessions and was a standout on the freshman eleven, so rather than use him as a replacement for the Erie boy, the Allegheny mentor converted him into an end. That's a smart move, for Bill's success as a scholastic center was largely due to his ability to diagnose plays. Other district lads who have won varsity berths with the Cats are: Co-captain Ralph Marasco of Kane, George Ewert of Ridgway, Saylor, George Hartwell and Don Amblen of Erie, Paul Krantz and Dick Roeder of Bradford, Jost Petrie of Meadville and Bill Riegger of North East.

When Coach Joe Hartman left Grove City to patch together the broken pieces of Franklin's grid machine it was predicted that there would be plenty of developments before Joe had been at the helm very long. The new mentor waited until Monday, after his charges had dropped a 28-19 count to Grove City, and then he let them have it and have it plenty. "Franklin High School will never have a winning team until its players learn to train and condition," Hartman said, asking that his statement be printed and pleading for the cooperation of the townspeople in seeing that his gridders keep three-fourths of his team man elaborated on his charge by saying that three-fourths of his team must have the strength to maintain it. None knows better than local didn't have the value of being in top shape, for Dragon teams have won plenty of ball games by being able to set the pace and keep it. The Nursery gridders come here on October 19, and they'd better be in shape—the Dragons can't hold up the game while their opponents get their wind.

YEARS AGO IN SPORT

October 2, 1920—Establishment of a high tribunal for baseball that would take control of the game from the hands of the magnates and managers and place it in the hands of men who would be considered as direct representatives of the public is being urged today as a result of the White Sox scandal. Already the names of the following have been suggested as members of this tribunal: William Howard Taft, former president; General John J. Pershing, General Leonard Wood, William G. McAdoo, Senator Hiram Johnson and Judge Kenesaw M. Landis. The Giants, White Sox, Pirates and Cubs have already approved the plan.

October 2, 1930—After "Lefty" Grove had outpitched Burleigh Grimes in the opener, the Athletics followed up their advantage today by steaming into their second World Series game victory by a count of 6 to 1. George Earnshaw held the Cards to six hits and struck out eight while the Mackmen were belting Flint Rhum out of the box in the fourth. Mickey Cochrane hit a homer for the Athletics and Harry Watkins banged one for the circuit for the Cards.

Dragons Favored To Even Season's Books With Win Over Oilers

The Oil City Oilers will be on the short end of the odds Thursday night when the Dragons invade O'Fall's Flats for the second night game in Warren High's grid history and the first since the locals played Bradford under the lights in 1934 at Bradford.

To date, Oil City has participated in four games and has been cracked down in all of them. A strong Erie East eleven clubbed them by a 34-6 count in the opener, Titusville scored a 20-6 victory, Grove City took them 25 to 6 and Bradford triumphed last Friday night, 26 to 0. Inasmuch as the Dragons whaled the Rockets 19 to 0, the Warren outfit is naturally the favorite although that advantage is partially offset by the fact that the Oilers are accustomed to playing under the mazdas.

The Dragons came back in fine style against Titusville after having suffered three shutout defeats at the hands of tough Erie Academies. Erie Strong Vincent and Kane teams, and with the kind of ball they showed here last Saturday should even their season's books.

The Oilers first appeared on a Warren schedule in 1913 and since then 32 games have been played, with the locals enjoying a slight edge. Leidig's teams have won half of the games while four tilts have been tied, the Oilers winning eleven.

The results of past games between the two teams follows:

Year	Dragons	Oilers
1915	19	3
1916	75	6
1917	0	0

ARMSTRONG TO MAKE 23RD TITLE DEFENSE

New York, Oct. 2. (AP)—Henry Armstrong, one of the busiest and probably one of the best fighters ever to rule the welterweight division, seems to be feeling the unpopularity that is the lot of champions who win too often.

Henry is due to defend his welter title for the 23rd time since he won it from Barney Ross two years ago when he fights Fritzzy Zivic of Pittsburgh at Madison Square Garden Friday night. According to observers, Fritzzy may be the toughest opponent Armstrong has faced in a title bout, but they haven't figured out how Hank can get full credit if he wins.

The trouble is this. Henry has fought so often and won so easily on most occasions that the fans and some experts are claiming he has been picking on the washed-up veterans.

BIG RACE

Pittsburgh, Oct. 2. (AP)—Many race horses bought in the United States from English sportsmen since war started will compete in the seventh annual steeplechase race meeting of Rolling Rock Hunt Racing Association at nearby Lioniger on Oct. 9-12. The 11 events include the international gold cup—the American "Grand National."

1,000 WITNESSES IN TRIAL

Pittsburgh, Oct. 2. (AP)—Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langhitt said some 1,000 witnesses had been summoned for trial today of 43 persons indicted on charges of circulating fraudulent Communist party nominating petitions. Defense attorneys lost a motion to quash the 105 indictments charging conspiracy, perjury and false pretense.

Sports Round-up

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

Cincinnati, Oct. 2.—Bulletin—It looks like a long, hard series, ladies and gentlemen, with the Reds winning in six or seven games.

Those who pick the Tigers do so because of their power and the long Cincinnati casualty list. . . . The Tigers have the power, all right, but we have an idea those injuries are of the "football injury" variety. . . . You know, a star-half-back runs a fever Friday night, then goes out there Saturday and runs his head off. . . .

This one is only guaranteed for 30 minutes, but it's red hot here. . . . That Phil Wrigley wants Larry MacPhail to become generalissimo of the Cubs next season. . . . RHINELANDERS GET PLUM FROM OAKLAND

Cincinnati, Oct. 2. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds saved $17,500 and may have gotten the prize plum in the annual baseball draft last night.

They chose Mike Christoff, outfielder for Oakland in the Pacific Coast League, for whom they once offered $25,000 and two players.

The bid was turned down when Mike was leading his team in home runs early in the season. He went into a slump but wound up hitting better than 300.

Twelve other minor leaguers were brought up through the draft, costing the major teams $7,500 if they came from Double-A class and $6,000 if from Class A or A-1.

They include:

Outfielder Ed Stewart of San Diego, by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

FROM BASEBALL TO PULPIT

Philadelphia, Oct. 2. (AP)—Rookie shortstop Bobbie Bragan of the National League baseball Phillies wants to be a minister.

"Yes," said the 21-year-old Clepper of the Busy Bee had high single game with 235, and his 594 took care of the individual total title for the evening.

Cincinnati Catcher Hears the Tigers Growl

Grayson's SCOREBOARD

Bartell Knows McKechnie Baseball, but Yanks Took Four in Row With Lazzeri on Cubs' Bench

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

IT is unusual that only two players in the long history of the world series have competed on both National and American League clubs.

Richard Bartell, who came back on two good ankles to spark the Tigers to the flag this year, shortstopped for the Giants in 1936 and '37.

Fat Malone, the big right-hand pitcher, toiled for the Cubs of '32 and the Yankees of '36 and '37.

Someone suggested that Dick Bartell, because of his 12 campaigns in the senior circuit and knowledge of the Bill McKechnie type of baseball and Cincinnati batters, would be of inestimable assistance to the Detroit club.

But Deacon Bill McKechnie discounted any such advantage for the Tigers.

"Tony Lazzeri, the backbone of the Yankees for a dozen seasons, was on the Cubs' bench in 1938, and the New York club took four straight," pointed out McKechnie.

DILL WEBER, the Reds' third baseman and leadoff man, has a D thorough American League background. The clubs are well acquainted, as a matter of fact. They return north together in the spring.

Not a few believed the Reds would be helped, rather than handicapped, by the presence behind the bat of 40-year-old Jimmy Wilson in place of big Ernie Lombardi, whose sprained ankle has been slow to heal.

Wilson couldn't be expected to smack the sphere like Schnozzle Lombardi, but pitchers like to throw to the old bloke, long one of the craftiest catchers in the business.

WHILE Eddie Joost would be adequate defensively at second base, it was agreed that the absence of Lonnie Frey, due to a broken and bruised big toe, wouldn't do the Rhinelanders any good, especially with Lombardi on the sidelines.

The one thing the Reds are shy of is power, and Lombardi and Frank McCormick are their only big guns.

Lonnie Frey's batting average is no more than .267, but he's much more formidable than that in a clutch and is the aggressive type. And the Reds realized they could not lay back and wait for the breaks against a Tiger batting order likely to knock the ball and the ball game out of the park at any time.

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

by Rita Mottac Harp

YESTERDAY, lovely Lynn Britton is on her way to visit the court of a Mongol prince, and her escort is apparently to be Temu Darin, handsome, American-educated friend of the prince. But now she finds that she is not a free agent, but must go and come as Temu wishes.

Chapter Six Strange Dinner

LYNN dropped into a chair, shaking uncontrollably. She remembered Dick's warning that some of these people had strange personal powers. In another minute, and with a little more encouragement, she would have been whispering her dreams to this stranger. She took herself determinedly in hand.

"Lynn Britton, snap out of it. You're no girl to be hypnotized by your own imagination and a tall young man with tea-colored eyes."

She rose and went to the far corner by the kang where the maid sat embroidering. The girl rose and bowed.

"My brother," Lynn explained, "do you know my brother? A white man?"

The maid brightened. "Yes, yes, white man." She made a motion of broadening her shoulders. "Wide man—strong, plitty—not? You like Temu Darin?"

Lynn tried again. "Do you know a white man? My brother. White, not wide. White like me." With two fingers she touched her cheek, chin and throat. "White like me."

The girl giggled and hid her face, pecking at Lynn through her fingers. "Yes, yes," she giggled. "Hum like you white."

Lynn gave up and walked to the window. The sky was clouding over and a strong wind twisted the bare elm tree at the gate. The immediate courtyard was empty, but she heard a commotion in a side court, the chatter of coolies, the roll of iron wheels over bricks, and the thud of packing boxes.

The familiar stut of a motor-truck engine was like a message from home. She could not be very far from familiar civilization after all.

A knock was heard at the door, then Temu Darin came in once more.

"Sherdock tells me," he said, "that without doing we shall hear from your brother tonight."

"I do," she cried. "How did you find this out?"

He spoke simply. "Sherdock has the power."

The maid broke into a clatter of Chinese. Temu Darin listened, his face expressing incredulity. As she repeated her words emphatically, putting two fingers to her cheek, chin and throat, he shot Lynn a quick glance.

Horried, she began to color. Then he smiled, said something grave to the girl, and left.

Lynn waited until he had time to return to his quarters, then started immediately for the door. She meant to get out of this place.

The maid scurried to the door, barring her way. "No, no, no," she cried. "Temu Darin say you no go."

"Am I a prisoner?" Lynn demanded.

"No, no, I you slave. You wait. He come back. You go now, he beat me." The girl went through the contortions of writhing from the blows of a club on her back.

"Beat?" Lynn recoiled.

She could pick up this child and set her aside as easily as if she were a puppy. But what was the use? She turned and paced the floor in a maze of distress. So this was what her sweet dreams had led her into! Was it real? Was it possible that this thing could be happening to her, Lynn Britton?

Her thoughts turned to Sherdock Fuyeh. He had said: "The gods, the demons, the whole universe is but a mirage which exists in the mind, springs from it, sinks into it." He had said mirage, not illusion. And a mirage is a reflection, however distorted, of something that really exists.

Gentle Captors
AS IF in response to her thoughts, Sherdock knocked at her door. Boys from the kitchen followed him in.

"My child," he said. "Temu and I shall dine with you tonight."

The servants lit the lamps and began setting the table.

"Will you arrange a place for my brother?" she asked as he warmed his hands over a glowing brazier.

representatives of the Prince of Shani Lun.

Lynn's eyes remained hostile. "I warn you to take good care of me. I am an American citizen and I have important friends."

"My dear," murmured the little priest, "we shall protect you with our lives."

She looked at him serene, smiling face and felt somewhat comforted.

Presently they sat down at the table, lovely with silver and linen and Chinese porcelain. In the center a bowl of pink roses from the green-houses of Peking shed their elusive fragrance.

"We are sorry your reception should be like this," remarked Temu Darin, saying his thanks on his knees. "Try not to think of us as enemies."

Lynn wondered if there were something mocking as well as evasive back of his words.

"How else can I think of you?" she asked. Lifting a spoonful of soup to her lips, she sipped it gently and swallowed—a pretty gesture when made by a pretty girl. She saw his heavy-lidded eyes on her throat and added maliciously. "My maid informed me that you would beat her if I left the room."

"Not at all," he answered pleasantly. "Chan, the head coolie, disciplines the servants."

Lynn turned to the lama. "Do you expect me to be philosophical about men who beat women?"

His little eyes twinkled. "Some women need beating."

Lynn sat back in her chair and stared at the bowl of roses. Presently, she laughed and resumed her dinner. What he had said was true: some women do need beating. She had known such women. The old man beamed at her but the young man's eyes were less readable.

"The girl tells me she's a slave," Lynn added. "Does she mean slave?"

"She means slave. She's a gift to you from the Princess Mother, especially trained by her." Temu answered carefully. "Though the child does not understand English very well, you will find her devoted to you."

Lynn took it for a covert apology and her cheeks warmed a bit, but she was glad for the reassurance. "Really a slave," she murmured. "There is something un-reconstructed in me that thrills to the idea of owning a slave. I accept her, but I suppose it is my duty as a good American to free her at once."

Little Rambon
THE lama shook his head. "You cannot evade an obligation that easily, my dear. Slaves are freed only from within. Hire her to a mistress or give her to a husband, she is still a slave. Servants brought the final course, consisting of rice and tea."

"You may as well keep the girl," Lynn said. "Her name is Little Rambon."

"Little Rambon?" Lynn repeated. "I shall write home. Dear friends and relatives: I have been given a slave girl; her name is Little Rambon. She was especially trained for me by the Princess Mother of Shani Lun."

She caught herself up suddenly. "I am being silly," she said apologetically, burying her face in her hands.

Temu rose and bent over her. "This has been a trying day for you. We shall leave you now."

"Don't go!" she cried looking up. "Don't leave me alone. Stay until we hear from Dick."

The young man turned to the priest who nodded. The noise moved away from the table and formed a group near a glowing brazier. Temu directed a maid to bring a foot stool for Lynn.

She tried to relax the tense muscles that held her like a jack-in-the-box, ready to jump the moment the lid was loosened.

Temu offered her a cigarette and then a drink. She turned to the priest, smoking his long-stemmed pipe with a tiny bowl.

His bright little black eyes twinkled again. "The consolation is that you are the one who has the power to make the reflection."

Lynn straightened in her chair, the lid of the charm box quivering to the pressure of her nerves. She felt that she must take things easy, be light and flippant. "You mean to say I'm the mother of this experience?"

He smiled and bowed. "Surely, you recognize your own child."

She thought a moment. Aren't the rest of you related to the urchin?"

Temu chuckled. "You might call Sherdock its great-uncle."

"You are placing all the responsibility on me. I didn't initiate this visit to Shani Lun—I merely accepted an invitation from the Prince and his family," she protested, watching the men exchange glances.

"That still leaves on the mother of your experience," Sherdock declared, "and reveals that the Prince is its father."

Temu gave a quick, surprised little laugh. "This is becoming a family affair."

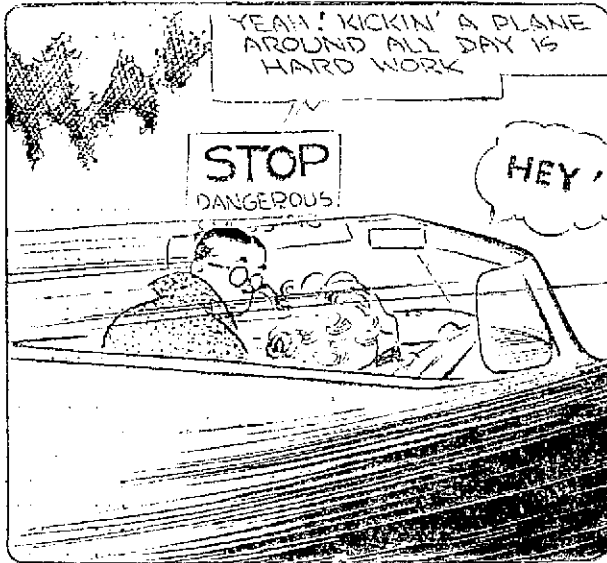

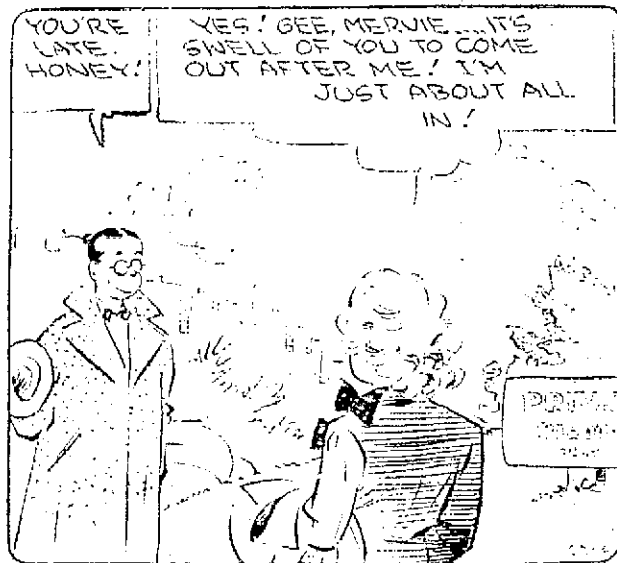

Lynn looked at him. Sitting at ease, his long legs crossed, he met her eyes for a moment and then glanced down at the ash on his cigarette, flicking it into a tray. She felt he was deliberately giving her a chance to look him over.

CHURCH REVIVALS

PILGRIM HOLINESS
The series of evangelistic services continued last evening in the "Little White Church", with a message from the evangelist on "What Constitutes a Christian". From the Scripture, Rev. Skinner showed how a Christian should live, act and walk. The radio singers gave two beautiful selections with electric guitar accompaniment. Rev. H. Blair Ward, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, led the congregation in prayer.

The service tonight is again at 7:30 o'clock, as well as every evening in the week, including Saturday. All interested are urged to avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing these talented workers.

Workers last evening were urged to encourage larger subscriptions from the previous contributors and to exert every effort to reach every prospect who might possibly make some contribution to the campaign.

Instead of making up the reports on a large blackboard, an innovation was introduced last evening whereby each worker was given a score sheet upon which to mark the totals as they were announced.

As each report was given, the workers marked it on their score sheet, keeping a close check on the progress of the report.

The second report dinner will be held this evening at 6:15 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. activities building.

Following is a summary of the first report:

Oct. 16 to be Holiday

"Conscientious objectors must register under the terms of the National Selective Training and Service act, although they will not be required to undergo combat training and service," the governor said in a statement.

A renewed call went out from the capitol today for Pennsylvania employers to let their workers have enough time off on October 16 to register under the selective service plan.

In some districts containing many eligible for registration, it is unlikely that the bulk of the enrollment can be completed during the busy evening hours," said Commerce Secretary Richard P. Brown.

"Where such congestion threatens, employers will aid in staggering the registration peaks throughout the day by allowing their employees sufficient time off to enroll during normal working hours."

Brown noted that election boards and other citizens are giving their time without compensation to handle the immense task, while men between the ages of 21 to 30 who are subject to conscription are "offering to contribute a year of their life for training for defense of our country. He expressed the view that employers "will be willing to aid as much as possible in simplifying the enrollment."

Governor James meanwhile advised local registration authorities they may accept free services of interpreters to help with alien registrants. The interpreters will be required to swear or affirm that they "will truly interpret the matter now in hearing."

Fourth Inning Tigers

Sullivan raised a high fly to Joost on the outfield grass behind second. Newsom raised three fouls and struck out. Bartell walked on five pitches. McCosky drove a single that struck second base and rolled into center field, advancing Bartell to third. Gehring grounded to Joost. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Fourth Inning Reds

Goodman led off by driving the first pitch into center field for a double. F. McCormick popped to Gehring. Ripple singled sharply to right, scoring Goodman from second base. Wilson grounded in to a double play. Higgins to Gehring to Joost. One run, two hits, no errors, none left.

Tax Bill Reaches The President to deduct from taxable income over a 5-year period the cost of facilities and expansion necessary to handle defense contracts.

The bill's yield was estimated at $25,000,000 on 1940 income, and between $900,000 and $1,000,000,000 in subsequent years.

Opponents were quick to point out, however, that this additional revenue would be a mere drop in the bucket when compared with the $15,000,000,000 in defense outlays voted by this session of congress.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) asserted: "We might as well make up our minds now that, beginning in January, it will become necessary for congress to revise the tax structure to raise what might be considered staggering sums."

Invasion Threat Believed Over For This Year

iternanean, for on events there the empire's future may depend. Military circles in England continue to preach preparedness against invasion, but neutral military observers and unofficial but reliable British sources expressed the belief today the zero hour for such an attack this year has come and gone.

Military sources declare, however, vast German concentrations of men and materials probably will be maintained in the English channel ports along the Nazi-held coast of France and the low countries throughout the winter.

The threat of invasion, it was thought, would keep Britain's north sea fleet from turning south to fight Germany's Italian allies in the Mediterranean.

Willkie's train remained during the night at Sturgis, Mich., to allow a morning stop at Adrian, Mich. Then the schedule called for short talks at Toledo, Oak Harbor, Sandusky, and Elyria, Ohio, before going to Cleveland in the evening.

"JUST A PRANK"

Pontiac, Mich., Oct. 2—(T)—Police took five Pontiac high school students from their classrooms today for questioning concerning the egg-throwing episode which marred the campaign visit yesterday of Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential candidate. Officers said the boys characterized their actions as "just a prank."

The student council adopted a resolution of regret over the incident at a special assembly today, and voted that a copy be forwarded to Mr. and Mrs. Willkie. The city council last night passed a resolution apologizing to Mr. and Mrs. Willkie for the incident.

The nominee devoted most of yesterday to campaigning in Michigan labor centers, telling audiences at Pontiac, Flint and Lansing that they should keep their minds open on current issues.

His final speech was delivered at sundown in the heart of Grand Rapids, where he told a cheering crowd that "the road to prosperity is paved with jobs."

Moore grounded out, York to Newsom who covered first. Werber flied to Campbell in right center. M. McCormick struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning Tigers

Greenberg smashed the first pitch into the left field corner but was held to one base by Ripple's magnificent throw to Meyer. Conring singled into short right center and Greenberg took second base. Campbell laid a sacrifice bunt down the third base line but was safe at first when Werber's throw pulled McCormick off the bag and the bases were filled. Higgins singled into center scoring Greenberg and York, and sending Campbell to second. Sullivan walked again filling the bases. Newsom sent a bouncer to F. McCormick who threw to Wilson, forcing Campbell and leaving the bases filled. Bartell lined a single past Derringer's head into center field scoring Higgins and Sullivan and putting Newsom on second. McCosky singled to deep left scoring Newsom and putting Bartell on second. Whitey Moore relieved Derringer. Moore trapped Bartell off second but Myers dropped the ball for an error as Bartell slid back into the bag. Gehring popped to Werber. Greenberg grounded out, Werber to F. McCormick.

Five runs, five hits, two errors, two left.

AUTO FIRES TO BE REDUCED BY NEW ICC RULING

Deaths and property damage due to automobile fires will undoubtedly be reduced as a result of the ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission requiring all private carriers in interstate commerce to carry fire extinguishers, Chief D. G. Kropf predicted today.

A survey conducted several months ago among 452 fire departments showed that more than eleven percent of all legitimate fire alarms are for automobile fires," the Chief explained. "When a large number of trucks carry extinguishers, their drivers will be able to put out many fires, both in their own and other vehicles. In this way, not only will there be fewer serious car fires, but the traffic dangers due to them will be reduced."

About 750,000 interstate private carriers are affected by the new ruling, which went into effect on October 1. These trucks operate every day between countless cities over countless highways. As the safety of private carriers is increased, the safety of everyone

CAPITOL BUILDING 34 YEARS OLD TODAY

Harrisburg, Oct. 2.—Pennsylvania's Capitol building is marking its thirty-fourth birthday anniversary today, according to the State Department of Commerce.

In February, 1897, the main building was destroyed by fire. Assembly sessions were held in various rooms of other state buildings and even in the Grace Methodist Church of Harrisburg. Authorization was made for the erection of the present building which is considered one of the most beautiful of state capitols. It was dedicated October 4, 1906 by President Theodore Roosevelt.

More than 125,000 persons have been shown through the Capitol since January 1, 1940, according to records kept by the Guide Office. This number does not include those persons who explore the Capitol without guide service.

OBSERVANCE OF ROSH HASHANA BEGINS TONIGHT

At 5:42 o'clock tonight the beginning of the Hebrew New Year with services in the Tophareth Israel synagogue, led by Rabbi Hans Kohnheim, who recently came to this country from Germany.

The New Year, called Rosh Hashana, begins at that time for Jews throughout the world with customary religious services. The holiday is observed by two days, but only one day by reform Jews. Most of the stores operated by Jewish merchants will be closed tomorrow and Friday, opening on Saturday.

The old Hebrew New Year greeting, "May you be inscribed for a happy year," will be exchanged on Thursday. The ancient Talmudic story explains the reason for the greeting by stating that in heaven there are three great books: one bearing names of the wicked; second, those of the good; and, third, those of the inbetween.

On New Year's, these books are brought before the Lord to judge the peoples of the earth for their deeds during the past year. Names of the good and the bad, the story recounts, are inscribed in the books at once. The fate of the inbetween is not decided at once and for 10 penitential days their deeds are weighed one against the other, the books remaining open awaiting their final judgment on Yom Kippur.

At services of New Year's Day, traditional observance of the holiday will be the sounding of the Shofar, or ram's horn, to remind the Jewish people to look back upon the past year, ponder their deeds and judge themselves. For a that day it is believed God begins to sit in judgment upon them during a 10-day penitential period, which ends with the observance of Yom Kippur, Day of Atonement, the final day of judgment.

During the 10 days of penitence from Rosh Hashana to Yom Kippur, Jews will offer special prayers asking forgiveness for any sins they may have committed during the year. This period, too, is considered the time not only for making one's peace with God, but with man.

Taken together, these two holidays are considered the holiest days of the Jewish year.

"Barrels of Shoes For War Refugees" Movement Started

Announcement was made today that Sheasley's Brotherie, 330 Pennsylvania avenue, west, has joined in the movement to provide "barrels of shoes for war refugees" through the British War Relief Society, Inc., of New York.

Under the plan, which is being followed by shoe stores throughout the country, residents of Warren are invited to take their old shoes to the Bootette, where a barrel will be placed outside to receive them.

As the barrels become filled, they will be shipped to New York, from where arrangements have been made to ship them to England.

Any person in Warren and vicinity who has old shoes which may be of use to refugees fleeing from war-torn sections of Europe is urged to take them to the Sheasley store for this worthy cause.

While it will not be necessary for persons to go inside the store to place the shoes in the barrel, a special discount is being offered to those who make purchases if they contribute to this cause.
